

SPECIAL EVENT NOTICE

Oscar Winner Patricia Neal and “Hud” at the Grand

Save the Grand Theatre, Inc. is elated to announce that Kentuckian and Oscar winning actress, Patricia Neal, originally from Packard in Whitley County, will appear at a Gala Reception at 6:30 p.m., November 10, 2006, followed by a 7:30 p.m. showing of the movie “Hud”. Ms. Neal, Paul Newman, and Melvyn Douglas starred in this 1963 classic film, directed by Martin Ritt, with the Academy Award winning Best Cinematography, Black-and-White of James Wong Howe.

Ms. Neal won the Best Supporting Actress award in 1963 for her performance in “Hud” where she portrays Alma Brown, the earthy housekeeper for Hud Bannon (Paul Newman) and his father, Homer (played by Academy Award winner Melvyn Douglas).

Ms. Neal’s appearance will be in conjunction with the publication of Patricia Neal, An Unquiet Life written by Stephen Michael Shearer. Save the Grand Theatre, Inc. is proud to partner with the Kentucky Book Fair and sponsor bringing Ms. Neal to Frankfort where she will also attend the Book Fair and sign this important biography of her life.

Ms. Neal is a Kentuckian whose film career includes “The Homecoming: A Christmas Story” (portraying Olivia Walton in the film pilot), “Breakfast at Tiffany’s”, and “The Subject Was Roses” (Ms. Neal received a Best Actress nomination for this film).

Limited tickets will be available for the entire event which will include the Gala Reception, film, and a Question and Answer session with Ms. Neal following the film. Ticket prices are $25. Tickets will be available at Poor Richard's Books on Broadway (223-8018). No tickets will be held for this event. We do expect to sellout, so we recommend you purchase your tickets early.

A cash bar will be provided at the Grand Theatre along with complimentary hors d'oeuvres.
